SPOTLIGHT

About Vernice Chua

Vernice graduated in 1998 with a Master of Mass Communications from Oklahoma City University, USA, at MDIS.

Inspiration from Cambodia

Vernice ventured into a footwear business, Nuabs. Nuabs was formed after her chanced experience during backpacking along Mekong River a few years ago. She chanced upon a very unique and organic way of making footwear. Farmers would pick up pieces of discarded tyre rubber and cut them to the size of one's foot. Thereafter, they would then use any material at home such as rice sack cloth, where they will sew over the rubber tyre and secure the footwear with a back strap.

A pair of Nuabs

Vernice decided to introduce this very interesting pair of footwear to the urbanites living in the cities. After all, Nuabs' mission is to build common grounds among people in this world. What better way to build common ground than by introducing a common footwear. After all, it has been said: "You can only understand someone after walking a mile in his shoes."

Vernice said, "We try to keep the design as simple as possible, cut out all the unnecessary bits like artificial padding, etc, and keep it as close as we can to how farmers make their footwear. Instead of shoe boxes, we have shoe bags to double up as handy packaging as well as a reusable bag for easy packing when travelling."

Common Grounds

MDIS Alumni brings people of various backgrounds together while Nuabs focuses in creating common 'grounds' for people.

Success Lies in Belief

Vernice shared, "As an entrepreneur, my emotions are like a roller coaster ride. There is hope, doubt, despair, frustration, anger, grief and joy, all packed into one body. There are always ups and downs, million and one battles to face and thousands of hurdles to overcome. But all these become insignificant when you see Nuabs on the feet of a human being walking down the street. You start to believe in yourself again."

“ Start a business only because you strongly believe in it and are truly inspired by it. Inspiration and hope can carry you through a lot of tough times. ”

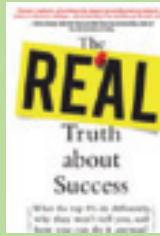

MDIS Alumni Network (MDISAN)

Vernice added, "With a strong MDISAN, I believe that every alumnus and alumna can make a difference in shaping and building a better future for themselves."
